HOW

ROY AND IMOGENE W. HATCH

Roy Hatch was born in Heber, December 14, 1884, son of Joseph and Jane Clyde Hatch. He married Imogene Wherritt on January 1, 1912, in Kansas City. She was born May 1, 1885, and died in August of 1958. They were the parents of one son, Roy Clay Hatch. Mr. Hatch died in November, 1958.

Prominent mining engineer, Roy Hatch spent most of his adult life working for Kennecott Copper Corporation. He was superintendent of mills in Arizona and Alaska and also at the Arthur and Magna plants in Utah. In later years he was chairman of the labor relations board and also assistant to the managing director of the Utah Copper Division of Kennecott.

JOHN AND RACHEL WILSON HOLFELTZ

John Holfetz, born October 15, 1829, at Altives Lorraine, France. Son of Philip Holfetz and Katherine Rechelin Holfetz. Married Rachel Wilson June 7, 1860, Salt Lake City. Died October 23, 1903, Midway.

Rachel Wilson, daughter of Thomas Wilson and Jane Ellis Wilson. Born February 6, 1842, Castle Hill, Ayershire, Scotland. Died April 1923, Midway.

In June of 1866, John and Rachel had their endowments in the old Endowment House in Salt Lake City. They lived in Salt Lake for some time then moved to Midway in November 1865. They lived and reared their family in a little home built on the farm that John Joost now owns.

In his young life Mr. Holfetz spent a lot of time in the gold mines at Carson City, Nevada, and California. He came back to Utah at the time Johnston's army came to Utah.

He was converted to the Mormon faith by reading a German Book of Mormon and other Church books, using sage brush fires at night to read by, on an island in Great Salt Lake. His schooling commenced in Germany, although his people were French. He was ordained an Elder in the LDS Church by Charles Harper in 1856. He was active in the Church until his death. He was a part-time farmer, chicken raiser, but a tanner by trade. He used to work in the tanner shop in Heber. He died at Midway, of a heart attack. He was a loving father and husband. He was respected by all who knew him.

Rachel had a hard time as a young woman, for her father died when she was nine years old. She had to go to work in a factory until she was eleven years old. They left Scotland and came to Utah. She walked most of the way across the plains. Her shoes wore out long before they arrived here, but she was so happy at the thought of coming to Zion that she had no time to feel badly about her shoes being worn out. They laughed and danced, sang songs when they stopped to rest.

She passed through the grasshopper and cricket famine. There was no bread for as long as six months at a time. They dug artichokes and sego bulbs to eat. When she was fifteen years old she went to live with the Charles Borne family, working for her board and room. Mr. Borne did pay for her schooling while she lived with them. Later she went home to her mother and as a family they were sent to the southern part of the state. Shortly after they returned to Salt Lake City she met John Holfetz and at eighteen years old she was married to him. She paid fifty cents a yard for lawn to make her wedding dress. She worked four weeks for the money. They lived in Salt Lake City where four of their children were born. They then moved to Midway, where they lived until their deaths.

Rachel was called as president of the Young Womens Mutual December 7, 1890. She was president of the Primary, a Sunday School teacher, and was a teacher in Relief Society for some 50 years until her death.

JOHNSON, Lee and Lavina Harper

The Second Ward has been our family's home church since it was originally organized and until portions of it were reorganized to form the Fourth and Eighth Wards. Members of the Johnson family still drive by that little red brick building with the wonderful stained-glass window and feel a pang of nostalgia when remembering the good times and the friendship there.

Lee's grandparents came from Sweden and settled in Heber Valley. They built their pioneer home that still stands on 192 South 3rd West, a part of the "old Second Ward." His parents were Ole and Elizabeth Johnson. Lee was born in Park City, Utah. He worked at the Park City and the New Park mines for many years. Then from 1949 until 1965, he owned a service station which stood on the corner where the new Seven Eleven convenience store stands now. Lee served in the army during World War II and later was

Commander of the American Legion for several years. He loved his country, his family, and his church.

Lavina was born in Big Cottonwood, Utah (now Holladay). Her parents were Chester and Amanda Herbst Harper. When she was three years old, the family moved to Big Lost River, Idaho. There she spent her early years. After graduation from high school, Lavina attended college at the University of Idaho, Southern Branch at Pocatello, Idaho, and at Brigham Young University. Lavina taught school in Idaho and in the elementary grades in Heber, and Kamas after marrying Lee and moving to Utah. Teaching young children was one of the activities she loved most.

Lee and Lavina were married October 27, 1930. They moved to Heber in November 1930 just in time to face the great depression. At that time they lived in the First Ward. There, both James and Janice were born. Marian was born in the Third Ward.

The Johnson family moved to the Second Ward December, 1941, two days before the bombing of Pearl Harbor. This home has been the family home for forty-six years. Thus, our happiest and most successful years were spent in the Heber Second Ward. We will always be grateful for the fine things our family received in this neighborhood. This is where our children learned the values of goodness and kindness from the friends in the ward. These experiences have been the basis to assure each of us happy and successful lives.

Now James and his wife Anna live in Denver Colorado. They have three children: Greg, Lorie, and Michael. James is a private consultant in the mining industry.

Janice is married to Glen Carlile, a fellow "Second Warden". They have five children and live in Fremont, California. Janice works in the church and has many, many other interests. Glen is a secondary teacher of math and a tax consultant.

Marian lives in Salt Lake City with her son, Matthew, and teaches secondary English at Taylorsville High School.

No matter where the Johnson family lives, the Heber Second Ward will be home to them.
